

The elimination of ever more access to a variety of points of view is depriving the citizens of the ability to be well-informed on issues that affect their lives in very important ways. Do not allow changes in the regulations that speed up this harmful process.